For Immediate Release:

EIU FACULTY TO DISCUSS EFFECTS OF TECHNOLOGY ON INDIVIDUAL DISCIPLINES

CHARLESTON – Eastern Illinois University's "Technology and Us" symposium will conclude its fall sessions with a double-header.

Beginning at 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18, Bonnie Irwin of Eastern's English department, will present, "I Can Speak English!" The talk will focus on the ways in which technology has affected her discipline.

Immediately following Irwin's presentation, Tom Woodall, formerly of Eastern's physical education department, will give a mediated presentation titled, "Health, Fitness and Sports: Benefactors of Technological Advances."

The event will take place in the Arcola/Tuscola Room of the University Union. Admission to both talks is free and open to the public.

The talk is one of a series in commemoration of Eastern's School of Technology's Centennial Anniversary. Additional sessions are planned for the spring.

Eastern Illinois University emphasizes distinguished teaching in the liberal arts, sciences and selected professions. A traditional, residential state university of recognized quality, Eastern enrolls more than 10,000 students in undergraduate and graduate programs. The university, located in Charleston, also serves the region through a variety of non-credit and off-site degree programs, as well as cultural and recreational opportunities. Eastern's pursuit of excellence attracts well-qualified students of an increasingly diverse population and a teaching faculty active in research and public service who utilize the latest technology.
